TANFORAN GETS READY FOR RACES

Peter B. Kyne Will Make Race Debut Tomorrow

Turf memories of yesteryear came back vividly to Californians today as Tanforan, San Mateo county's beautiful sporting green, buzzed with activity in preparation for the 13-day racing meet opening there tomorrow, (Saturday). The finest horses in America trotted leisurely in training around the court-like track, while others equally as thoroughbred tugged at their halter, impatient to be away amid the shouts of thrilled fans soon to be massed in the grandstands and clubhouse to watch the most spectacular racing meet the Pacific Coast has ever sponsored.

Nearly 500 of the finest mounts that have ever written history on the American turf are stabled at the San Bruno track for the racing program, which promises contests to thrill even a veteran. All week long carload after carload of horses have been arriving at the track from Agua Caliente and points in the west. Such noted performers as Golden Prince, Victorian, Alexander Pantages, Seth's Hope and scores of others are entered for the event.

An outstanding feature of the session will be the debut of Peter B. Kyne, internationally known writer and novelist, as a turfman. For the first time his colors will fly over a race track when his horses step up to the post to participate in the meet. Kyne's racing success will be phenomenal if it brings him the fame his novels have.

The Pacific Coast Breeders' Association, sponsors of the meet, is composed of some of the most prominent men and women of the west. In selecting officials for the race the members have picked some of the best known figures in the racing world. The contests to be conducted daily under the personal direction of these men will rival any ever staged anywhere, and their selection insures Tanforan a racing episode that will equal the most highly and cleanly conducted meets of race track history.

These officials are widely known among the turf fraternity of the Pacific Coast and their integrity has become a byword in the racing world throughout the United States. They include:

Stewards—Joseph A. Murphy and Floyd McKenney.

Placing Judges—W. R. Norvell, J. S. Rothert and Peter Clark.

Starter—Harry Morrissey.

Racing Secretary—W. R. Norvell

Track Physician—Dr. F. H. Smith

Official Veternarian—Dr. C. Masoero.

Official Timer—James McDonnell.

Hundreds of interested spectators have gathered during the last week at Tanforan to see the thoroughbreds arrive and to inspect the racing plant. Interest has beenn aroused to a high pitch by the very fine horses to be matched during the coming meet, and indications are that thousands of people will gather from all over the west to witness the daily contests.

The racing will be confined to week days, Sunday being reserved for visitors to inspect the track and stables and racing plant in general. No minors will be permitted to attend the races, and the general admission fee has been placed at a dollar and fifty cents.

Man Arrested As Drunken Driver

One man was arrested and another injured as the result of a crash which occurred on the Woodside Road, Sunday. Ed Stickney, 616 Whipple Road, driver of one of the cars, was arrested on a charge of driving while drunk, and Gus. Burgfunkel, 316 Middlefield Road, who was riding with Stickney, was injured. He was treated by Dr. Harry Mason for cuts and bruises.

Stickney's machine collided with one driven by Herman Wilson of Woodside, on the Woodside Road, near Central Avenue. The arrest was made by Officers Fleishman and Rosa.

On Tuesday Stickney was given a hearing in the court of Police Judge Edward I. McAuliffe, and was held to answer in the superior court, on the drunk driving charge.

Fred Aldred and Fred Williams each were advanced to the rank of "warrior."

Club Men To Hear Talk On Rapid Calculating

Winkler Estate

Josephine Winkler, widow of the late Ferdinand E. Winkler, has filed a petition for letters of administration upon his estate. The property consists of the Woodside grocery store, now rented by Neuman Bros., and is considered very valuable. The petition recites that the estate is in excess of $10,000. Jas. T. O'Keefe is the attorney for the petitioner.

Redwood Begins Census Taking

Crew of Six Working Making Count of Noses

Six persons began Tuesday the task of counting and classifying every resident in Redwood City. This task, a portion of the work of taking the 15th decennial census, is being conducted in this county, as in counties of San Benito, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and Monterey, by Dr. Willard C. Bailey, supervisor of the census for the 10th district of California.

The work of taking the census in Redwood City will be performed by six persons the town having been divided into six census districts with one enumerator assigned to each district. The census-takers are Mrs. James D. Hedge, Mrs. Grace Hartsough, Mrs. A. W. Tate, Miss M. Deeny, L. A Heiner and Jeorme McDonald.

The census enumerators have been greatly assisted by persons filling out blanks similar to the one in use by the government. The time of the enumerator is saved if this information is ready for him when he calls.

A meeting of the enumerators was held at the city hall yesterday afternoon, at which time Dr. Bailey discussed the problems of taking the census.

EXCHANGITES HEAR BUILDING PROBLEMS

The increase in the height of skyscrapers in American cities has created problems which the steel manufacturers have had to solve. Some of these difficulties were explained to members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening at the regular weekly meeting of the club. The speaker was A. V. Smith, construction engineer for a large steel corporation, and a friend of J. R. Fox, local Exchangite, who secured him to speak for the evening.

The chairman of the meeting was William O'Connor.

The club had as its guest Tuesday evening, Dr. J. McBryan, who is conducting the dental clinic at the Redwood City schools. Dr. McBryan described the work which this clinic is accomplishing among the school children.

Two other guests, Terry Kellogg, captain of the Sequoia lightweight swimming team, and Frank Goldthwaite, captain of the unlimited team, were introduced by James Eva, Sequoia swimming coach. A report on the baseball condition at the high school was given by Leonard Casanova, athletic coach.

80th Birthday Of Mrs. Werder Celebrated

Mrs. Bertha M. Werder, one of Redwood City's pioneer and best-loved women residents, celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary at her home, 412 Hamilton street, on Wednesday. During the day a large number of friends and neighbors called at the house to offer felicitations on the happy occasion, and in the evening the four sons of Mrs. Werder, their wives and the grand children gathered for a family dinner. Mrs. Werder was the recipient of many beautiful gifts and flowers from her relatives and friends, and also from the Relief Corps and the Pioneer Club of the latter organization.

Mrs. Werder has been a resident of Redwood City for the past 51 years. She came here from Germany in 1879 and was married that year to Ludwig Werder, who had just come; to California from the east. Mr. Werder, who was a veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic and a member of Gen. Geo. S. Evans Grand Army Post of this city, passed away several years ago. The couple had resided in house on Hamilton street, where Mrs. Werder still makes her home, for 42 years.

The four sons all reside in Redwood City. They are Ernest H. Werder, San Mateo county purchasing agent Bert L. Werder, county fire warden and Boy Scout worker; Ludwig Werder, who is engaged in the real estate business with offices in San Francisco; and Henry Werder, who is connected with the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Mrs. Werder has two sisters and two brothers residing in Germany. Among the letters of congratulations Wednesday was one from the eldest sister, who is 84, and who like Mrs. Werder is enjoying excellent health.

At the family dinner party Wednesday evening in addition to Mrs. Werder were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Werder, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Werder and three children, Brenton, Ernest and Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Werder and son, William, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werder and daughter, Margaret.

A compilation of deer tags shows that 21,220 deer were killed by hunters during the 1929 open season in California. This is 295 less than the count for 1928.

WESTERN PACIFIC HEARING BEFORE I. C. C. COMMISION

Fight Between Rail Lines May Result In Compromise on Joint Freight Line on Peninsula

One of the most important hearings ever held in San Francisco, as far as the development of the peninsula is concerned, was that held this week before Engineer H. C. Davis of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The hearing was that upon the application of the Western Pacific Railroad, to build a line from its present line at Niles to San Francisco.

One of the most important witnesses at the hearing was President H. M. Adams of the Western Pacific, who told of the importance of the proposed extension, not alone to the peninsula communties, but to the railroad itself.

Adams told of the importance of the San Francisco-Niles link to the Western Pacific by declaring that it would put San Francisco on the main line, would avoid barging freight across the bay, would make it possible for the railroad to handle more business and, by improving service, would automatically increase business.

He described at length the possibilities of the industrial territory lying between Hunters Point and Redwood City. This, he said, would be particularly available for industries requiring large acreage. The land, he pointed out, was close to a deep water channel and was certain to become valuable industrial property soon.

He pointed out that if the I. C. C. grants the application of the Great Northern and the Western Pacific to build the Klamath Falls to Keddie gap, business over the main line of the Westren Pacific into San Francisco will immediately jump and a straight rail link will be a necessity.

Adams testified that the cost of the extension from San Francisco to Niles would be approximately $8,000,000, including $2,000,000 for a bridge across San Francisco bay. It might be possible, he said, to conclude arrangements with the S. P. for use of the S. P. bridge and the S. P. tracks from Redwood City to the Dumbarton bridge, but the Western PJacific was prepared to build. He indicated that if the permits were granted negotiations with the S. P. would be almost certain.

The Western Pacific was backed up in its stand by representatives of the Peninsula Industries Conference of San Mateo county, headed by Attorney H. M. Wade. The San Mateo body is formally before the commission as an interventor and is entitled to participate in the examination of all witnesses and to proffer testimony. It has had eigineers and experts prepare a study of the needs of the community and the necessity of the new road to this county.

Other intervenors are the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which was represented by Attorney Seth Mann the California Railroad Commission, represented by Attorney Arthur T. George and the Downtown Association of San Francisco. All are intervenors on the side of the Western Pacific With them sat the staff of Western Pacific attorneys, headed by James S. Moore. Southern Pacific attorneys were headed by Evan J. Fould.

The matter was heard last year before the same examiner, but owing to the fact that the Western Pacific's petition did not explicitly state that that its peninsula line would connect with its main line at Niles, the examiner refused to give it his sanction. He intimated, however, that if this were changed he would consider the matter. The petition was, therefore, withdrawn, and the new petition presented.

The hearing was expected to be completed yesterday afternoon. Examiner Davis has been hurrying the hearing through and all testimony which he considered repetitive has been thrown out.

A possible solution of the fight between the Western Pacific and the Southern Pacific; the former to gain a peninsular line and a direct rail line into San Francisco, and the latter to keep its present position as the only rail line to the city of San Francisco, may be the construction of a joint freight line down the peninsula to be used by both companies.

Officials of both companies are said to regard construction of a joint user freight line along the San Francisco bay east of the Bayshore highway and joint use of the bridge as having beneficial possibilities for both railroads.

Officials of both the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific have predicted that construction of such a freight line might be authorized by the interstate commission as a solution to the problem.

A joint user freight line, it was stated, would accelerate freight shipments to the benefit of both carriers, and would relieve passenger train traffic along the peninsula if used solely for freight shipments.

KIWANIANS TOLD HOW OAKLAND RUNS CITY PLAYGROUNDS

Members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club were given an interesting and instructive talk on the management of municipal playgrounds Wednesday at the regular noon meeting of the club. The speaker was R. W. Robertson, superintendent of recreation of the city of Oakland, and director of physical education of the Oakland public schools.

Robertson told the clubmen how Oakland had arranged to have all school playgrounds used as municipal playgrounds whenever school was not in session. This arrangement solved the problem of providing playgrounds and equipment in many sections of Oakland, he stated.

The speaker stressed the advantages of giving the child a place to play in his own home. "The backyard playground movement is being carried on by its own momentum," he said.

"A place for the pre-school child to play is distinctly a home problem. Parents realize that children should not be allowed to play on the streets and that the child under school age cannot be adequately cared for on the public playground.

"This group of children should have an opportunity to play, a place to play and something to play with. Backyards are being planned with the thought that certain playground equipment is a menas of building health and energy into little bodies. This equipment must be safe. It can be selected so that space of any size may be utilized.

"Parents should realize that money invested in a few pieces of playground equipment will last for years while the same amount invested in fragile toys will last only a few months.

"A playground in the backyard is very attractive to the child and his playmates. With but little work and small expense this attraction may be added to the home, and it will materially reduce the difficulty of supervision for the mother and will add to the physical well being of the child."

Plans are underway for construction of the proposed highway Elsinore through Cleveland mountains to San Juan Capistrano.

MAN ARRESTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Joseph Laughran, alias Joseph Larkin, was arrested on Wednesday by Deputy Sheriffs Lawrence Neri and Tom Maloney. He is charged with attack with a deadly weapon in connection with an argument with a service station attendant in San Carlos.

Laughran was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Emmett Lee, attendant at the Y service station on the highway. Lee charges that Laughran came to the station and started an argument with him. He then is alleged to have drawn a revolver and struck Lee over the head with the butt of the gun.

Lee states that Mrs. Lee then came to her husband's assistance, and was also struck with the gun.

Laughran was booked at the county jail, and later released upon posting $500 cash bail. He will be given a hearing before Judge Gafey today.

INQUEST HELD IN S. S. F. GIRL'S DEATH

An inquest was held in South San Francisco Tuesday into the death of Norma Denardi, 8-year-old girl who was struck by a car Sunday while chasing a ball into the street. The death of the girl was held to have been accidental. The car was driven by Charles Powers, 15, who was declared not to have been at fault in the accident.

STATE BONDS TOTAL MANY MILLIONS IN CALIFORNIA

State Rates Second In Outstanding Bonds

By HOMER L. ROBERTS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 3.—Next to Florida, California has the largest total net bonded indebtedness of any state in the union.

Every man, woman and child in California, is represented by $190.20 in bonded indebtedness for its cities and counties, as compared to $341.26 for Florida, according to State Controller Ray L. Riley.

County bond issues in San Mateo county, exclusive of water, school and road districts, now stand at $938,265, according to figures just compiled by Riley.

While California's optimism is unbounded, Riley says, this optimism is backed by accurate knowledge of its wealth and future prespects. Income tax figures indicate that California is the fifth richest state in the country.

The bonded debt for cities far outstrips that of other political subdivisions and totals $360,252,349.57. The debt for irrigation, reclamation, school and other districts comes next with a total burden of $249,755,656.52. The state's debt is third, totaling $121,776,500, while the county burden is come fourth, set at $50,233,500.

"It's not so much what we spend as what we get for our dollars," said Riley. "Millions have been wasted in unwise bond issues. In one reclamation district, No. 6, the state has had to step in and assume over $5,000,000. There's an inclination to spend too much money on showy school buildings. I also feel that too much is spent on supervision of business."

California's present need is some state authority to pass upon the issuance of bonds, Riley believes. The present State Bond Certificate Commission is a step in that direction, but, he says, should be provided with more "teeth."

War Veteran Dise In S. F. Hospital

Edward Joseph Jennings, well-known Redwood City man, passed away Tuesday night in the St. Francis hospital in San Francisco. He had been in ill health for a long time, and had gone to the hospital for an operation. His death was the result of pneumonia, resulting from his weakened condition.

Jennings was a member of the 91st division, having served with Company E, 363 Infantry, which saw action at the front. He is credited with having faced machine gun fire in at least three times "over the top." He was a member of the American Legion, of Redwood City Lodge No. 168, F. & A. M., and of San Mateo Lodge No. 1112, B. P. O. E.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Jennings, two children, Edward and Beverly Jennings; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Broska; the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Catherine Pease, Mrs. Certrude Gelhaus, Helen, William, John and William Jennings. He was the son of the late Patrick Jennings and brother of the late Mrs. Margaret Gibson and the late Lloyd Jennings.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Masonic Temple under the auspices of Redwood City Lodge of Masons. Interment was in Cypress Lawn cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Layng & Tinney.

ANNEXATION LOSES AT BELMONT VOTE

The election held in Bay View Heights this week to decide upon the proposition of annexation of that district to Belmont, resulted in the failure of the proposal to carry. Of the 18 votes cast, 10 were cast against the measure and eight were for it.

The proposal was to add about 350 acres of land north of Belmont to the incorporated city. The tract contains about 37 homes.

Pioneer Woman Laid To Rest

In the passing of Mrs. Mary Nealon, widow of Patrick Nealon, in San Francisco last Friday there is removed from earthly scenes a former pioneer resident of Redwood City, who was pominent in the affairs of this city a half century ago. Her death recalls episodes in the lives of the widely known pioneer family whose members were active in local events in times long past.

Mrs. Nealon came here in the sixties as a young girl. She witnessed the dedication of Mount Carmel Church by Father Dempsey and was active in the affairs of the church up until she departed for San Francisco thirty years ago. Mrs. Nealon was a leader in the upbuilding of Redwood City, always taking a prominent part in any movement having for its object the betterment of the city, its people and its body politic.

In 1875 she married Patrick Nealon, a prominent business man. When he passed away thirty years ago, Mrs. Nealon became a resident of San Francisco.

Like the most of the human race she had her sorrows and burdens, but with Christian fortitude she bore her cross bravely to the end.

Many years ago her young son, James, a youth of promise, was drowned in the Russian river while vacationing at a summer resort near the treacherous stream. The blow was severe; the sorrow almost unbearable, but in the passing years she became reconciled to the divine decree and her heart wounds healed, but memory often reverted to the sterling youth whom she loved dearly.

Thomas Nealon, a step-son, passed away in San Francisco some years ago and that caused her sorrow. In the eighteies the young man entered the Times-Gazette office to learn the printer's trade. In due time he became an expert printer and a writer of more than ordinary ability. His desire for travel caused him to become an itinerant printer. He set type in every large city of the country, Canada, Mexico and Honolulu; and just before his death he was preparing to make a tour of Europe. He loved to ramble and see things. While setting type in a large eastern newspaper office many years ago he was given an associated dispatch to put in type. It contained the news of the tragic death of Sheriff Philip McEvoy of Redwood City. The sheriff was Nealon's schoolmate. He was almost stunned by the news but he set up the article. Nealon in after years often referred to this coincidence.

In early days numerous families established their home in what was then known as the "Flat," a section in the south east part of town. Mrs. Nealon is the last survivor of those early settlers in that locality.

Mrs. Nealon frequently visited her old friend, the late Mrs. John Kearse, both of whom spent their youth together here. The latter's death a few years ago was a severe shock to Mrs. Nealon.

Mrs. Nealon was nearly ninety years old when the summons came. She was prepared and ready to enter the Valley of the Shadows, knowing that she would join her loved ones, gone before. She was laid away in Holy Cross cemetery, Menlo Park, Monday, there to sleep her long last sleep not far from relatives and friends who preceded her to the shores beyond.

Oakland— American Development Company started construction of $100,000 plant here to handle ore from its barium property at Eagleville, Nevada.

WEEDS WILL BE REMOVED BY FIREMEN

Street Deartment To Supervise Weed Removal

Reduce the dry grass fire hazards in Redwood City this year. This is the determination of City Manager E. A. Rolison, who yesterday announced the plans that are to be carried out under the supervision of the street department and with the fire department co-operating to eliminate this menace as much as possible. The full co-operation of the property owners and citizens of the city is essential in the success of the undertaking, according to the city manager, who this week, is mailing out to all property owners circular letters calling attention to the seriousness of the dry grass fire hazard and the urgent necessity of taking steps to curb it before the summer season is too far along.

This week, under the supervision of Street Superintendent C. L. Dimmitt and in accordance with resolution of the city council adopted on March 17, notices are being posted throughout the city directing property owners to remove weeds and grass from in front of or upon their property and that nuisances are abated, the work will be done by the city and the costs assessed against the property. The hearing in the matter has been set for Monday, April 21,

The same plan will be carried out with regard to the burning of dry grass in front of or adjoining homes or upon vacant lots, according to the circular letter sent out by City Manager Rolison. The property owners will be given the opportunity to do this work themselves under the supervision and to the satisfaction of the fire department. In order to get the best results and to eliminate any possibilities of danger, it is directed that those who elect to burn the grass on their property first get a written permit from the fire department, which will furnish all necessary information and advice relative to the proper time and manner of setting the fires. Where the menace is not removed by the property owner, the work will be done by the fire department and at the expense of the owner.

Last year during the dry season there were 164 grass fires in Redwood City. In addition to the hazard caused by these fires, there was the cost to the city in the run of the engine to the blaze and the using of the apparatus, not to mention the time of the volunteer members, who leave their business or work every time an alarm is turned in.

In the program that is being worked out by City Manager Rolison and Street Superintendent C. L. Dimmitt and Fire Chief M. E. Ryan, in the elimination of the hazards, it is hoped that the number of grass fires during the coming summer season will be greatly reduced. As already stated, however, the full co-operation of the citizens of the city must be had if this result is to be obtained.

YOMECANS HEAR ABOUT "TALKIES"

One of the most interesting talks yet to be heard by the Yomecan Club was given by Ed Colman, one of the new members of the club who told of the technical side of "talkies," how they are produced, and the effect they are having not only on the movie theatres, but on the vaudeville and the legitimate stage. He stated that vaudeville was practically eliminated as a type of entertainment, that many actors and musicians have been put out of jobs. He went into detail as to how the sound is produced on two types of machines.

Wesley Haydock made a report on the Pet and Hobby Show which is to be held on April 2th. Among other things he stated that full co-operation of the schools had been secured in urging the children to participate in this special event.

Ed Patterson was chairman of the day.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Negotiations were virtually completed for purchase of downtown property as a site for Sacramento's proposed $1,250,000 postoffice and federal building.

The Supreme Court was asked to set aside recent decision sustaining validity of portions on the motor vehicle act of California which impose a graduate license fee on motor vehicles used for transportation for hire. In two cases from northern California, brought by Carley and Hamilton, Incorporated, and others and by George T. Cottingham and others, the graduated fee as measured by weight was challenged as unconstitional.

Consolidation of the Tubercular Jewish Ex-Patients' Home and Jewish Consumptive Association under the name of the Jewish Consumptive and Ex-Patients' Relief Association, with headquarters in Los Angeles, was filed with the secretary of state. The company includes among its directors Harry K. Cohen, Aaron Finkelstein and twenty other Los Angeles residents.

The promotion of Colonel Wallace A. Mason, commanding officer of the 184th infantry, California National Guard, stationed at Sacramento, to the rank of brigadier general to command the Seventh-ninth brigade, was announced by Adjutant General R. E. Mittelstaedt. General Mason is to command the 159th infantry located in the San Francisco Bay district, San Jose and Gilroy, and the 184th infantry, located in the Sacramento Valley. General Mason has been a member of the California National Guard for more than ten years. His war record includes service on the Mexican border and as lieutenant, captain and major in the 117th Engineers, Forty-second, Rainbow Division, in the World War.

During Army Air Corps maneuvers at Sacramento, April 1-24, pilots of the 95th Pursuit Squadron station at Rockwell Field, California, with their Wasp-powered Boeing righters will demonstarate that the Army can fight three miles further from mother earth than it did in 1918. Airplanes fought over the western front at altitudes hardly exceeding 15,000 feet, these fast little Wasps of the air can perform at double that height. S ome of them have climbed to and maneuvered at 31,200 feet.

Practically all southern California interests were agreed on the allocation of Boulder Dam power distribution. The agreement was reached following a conference between representatives of the Department of the Interior, the city of Los Angeles, the metropolitan water district and the Southern California Edison Company. At least 50 per cent of the families own their own homes.

The schools provide manual training, domestic science, business and musical training.

Fifty per cent of grade school graduates go on to high school.

Not more than 10 per cent of the working men in the community work more than 55 hours a week.

The number of women gainfully employed is not more than one-third as many as the men.

Seventy-five per cent of all children eligible are enrolled in kindergarten.

The community has Red Cross and anti-tuberculosis work.

The community has a public library and pays at least $1.00 per capita for its support.

Not more than 5 per cent of the children 10 to 15 years of age are gainfully occupied during school hours.

All churches have a pastor with seminary training.

One-fourth of the people of the community are attending church on an average Sunday.

The leading men and women of the community are church members.

The form of municipal government is what the majority of the people want.

At least 40 per cent of the eligible vote during election.

The water supply is pure at the source or is treated.

Seven-eighths of the homes are sewered or are with sanitary provisions.

The public library does special work with the schools.

Not more than 3 per cent of the families have to accept charity aid.

All churches have suitable facilities for worship, instruction and special activities.

Quarantine and proper protection for the isolation of communicable diseases made effective.

Many Above 65 Objects Of Charity

By S. W. STRAUSS,
President American Society for Thrift

An authority on old age dependence states that there are now 2,000,000 individuals in this country above the age of 65 who are wholly or partly dependent on others for their support. After a survey of the situation among the aged poor in America the man responsible for these statistics says:

"Thrift and habits of saving on the part of individuals constitute one of the most important bulwarks against old age dependency but in my opinion something more, something over and above individual thrift is necessary if we are to abolish old age dependency. I refer to an old age insurance or pension system which, I believe, would unquestionably raise the general standards of living and eliminate the fear of old age."

Perhaps, as is here indicated, a national old age pension law is advisable but it is not the purpose of this article to go into this point.

We must not forget that society has its obligations to the unfortunate individual. But what are the obligations of the individual to his own interests?

As long as people are taught that thrift means merely saving money and that all the individual need concern himself about is putting money in a bank, we shall continue to hear the sorry stories of old age dependents.

Manifestly, our greatest need is for individuals to understand that true thrift consists of planning an economically successful life. This means that in addition to saving money, time must be employed in the development of an increased earning capacity; good health must be conserved to prolong the years of productivity; investments must be made that will yield a dependable income; insurance must be carried to protect one's self in case of accident or illness and to safeguard the future of one's dependents; and that when one's earning capacity is secure, provision must be made against the time when old age or adversity arrive.

When the public ceases to regard thrift merely as saving and learns to appraise it from the broader aspects as here pointed out, we shall have reached the period in our national life when old age dependency is much less a public problem than it is today.

In at least one of the west states mining faces a taxation crisis.

Organized groups, with centralized legislative power, have been attempting to saddle the mines with exorbitant taxes in order to "relieve" other industries and agriculture. Apparently they fail to realize that, in the West, the progress and prosperity of every other industry is to a large degree dependent on the progress and prosperity of mining. If the mines should be oppressed by an excessive tax burden, it would be a serious blow to Western development of all kinds.

The trouble is that few people understand the problems connected with mining. It is distinct from all other businesses in that it is impossible to accurately foretell the life of any given mine and every day a mine is operated it is less valuable. Metal prices are dependent on foreign competition, on demand, and on a number of other factors outside the control of the industry.

The mining industry is too precious and necessary to the nation to be menaced by unthinking and pernicious legislation. As to taxation, the mines ask only that they be treated fairly, in the manner of all other industries.

The "Buy At Home" Campaign

That campaigns to "Buy at Home" and "Patronize Your Home Owned Store" are doomed to failure unless the home merchants are awake to the fact they must give real values and real service.

Sentiment alone is not dependable, no matter hom much pride in the home community and the success of its business institutions the citizens may have.

When the pocket-book is affected and the wants and desires of the customers must be satisfied, it takes more than "home loyalty" to keep their cash in the local tills.

Women do the buying more generally today than at any time in our history; they are more particular, possibly more exacting and certainly better informed through modern newspaper advertising. They know what they want in style and quality and the price they should pay because they read the ads and keep abreast of the times through the information given by the wide-awake, progressive merchants.

The Guest Towel

It has been said that "actresses may happen in the best of families." Another enigma is: "Why the guest towel?" Every family may not have an actress, but nearly every family has a set of guest towels. Why? Nobody uses them, not even the guests. We all know the line-up of towels on the rack near the bath-tub. There are the ones for the family and those for the guests. No matter whether there are any guests or not, there must be guest towels. The family does not dare use them, and the guests, usually trained in the same manner in their own homes, also refrain for no other reason than "What is good enough for the host is good enough for me."

True

There will never be any farm relief, until the farmer makes up his mind to produce it. The government is not going to buy farm products, either, corn, wheat, cotton or any other farm product. Neither will congress legislate against the gambling stock markets which has brought financial ruin to the country. Farm relief wil come when the farms are made to feed themselves and their owners.

More Deporting

Long ago, we expressed the wish that authorities would do more deporting. Deportation hits the alien right in his heart; it has far more effect on him than threats of the "iron hand" of the law of this land has. When aliens see this country means to rid itself of those who disobey its laws, and that the only way to avoid deportation is to obey the laws, they will be obeyed much more than now.

Every night we drive out we run across many automobiles carrying only one light in front. The law says every automobile shall carry TWO LIGHTS in front of uniform candle power. We hear a lot about going after those law breakers but they still float around unmolested, but not uncursed.

"A Congressman from Maine objects to the appearance of 'Idaho potatoes' on the House restaurant menu in red ink. 'Propaganda,' he terms it, jealously guarding the reputation of potatoes raised in his own state. Now what are we going to do about 'Chicken a la Maryland,' 'Virginia ham' and 'Boston beans?' "—Exchange.

Every congressman, senator, newspaper or individual who says anything worth listening to is spreading propaganda for or against some person or cause. There would be little speech-making, radio broadcatsing, editorial writing or advertising if propaganda were eliminated, for the mouths of champions or opponents of measures, men or products would be closed, else "propaganda" would issue forth.

Menlo Park Fire Perils Business Section of Town

Menlo Park's business district was threatened with destruction Monday night, when a fire destroyed the building known as the Menlo Riding Academy, now used as a warehouse. The fire began in the house of Dr. J. A. Campbell, Menlo Park veterinarian. From there it spread to the warehouse, and was only prevented from spreading to surrounding buildings by the strenuous efforts of the Menlo Park fire department.

The home of Dr. Campbell and his family was completely destroyed and the family narrowly escaped. Firemen saved some of the furniture from the warehouse, but a large part of it burned. The furniture is said to belong to a San Jose storage firm. The building was a complete loss. The loss is estimated at about $25,000.

Traffic Lights Not Favored On Bayshore Road

San Mateo C. of C. in Protest to S. F. Board

A copy of a letter sent to the San Francisco board of supervisors by the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce, has been received by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce. The San Francisco board has contemplated the erection of traffic signals at Silver Avenue, Paul Avenue and Third Street.

This action on the part of San Francisco, the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce, declares, it views with alarm. Present development of the peninsula, it states, is due to rapid transportation to San Francisco. The directors believe that slowing up of traffic, due to the installation of traffic lights at various intersections, will result in the disadvantage of the peninsula.

The letter sent to the San Francisco board of Supervisors follows:

Hon. Board of Supervisors,
City and County of San Francisco,
San Francisco, California.

Dear Sirs: We understand that at the time of construction of the Bayshore boulevard provision was made for nine sets of traffic signals and that it is proposed to put in three sets of signals in the near future. As one of the communities that is sharing in the great influx from this fast artery of communication great alarm is felt at any plan that will tend to slow up traffic and which might endanger the benefits of this boulevard.

We therefore respectfully urge that a most careful investigation be made and every consideration be given before installing any traffic signals on this boulevard and that such action only be taken as a last and most necessary resort.

Respectfully yours,
FRED E. BEER,
President.

At the time of the construction of the boulevard, conduit and posts were placed at nine locations to facilitate future installation of automatic stop and go signals. At each location that might require signal control within approximately five years, conduit was plated under the roadway to avoid future tearing up of the pavement.

Mills Field To Receive Planes For Army Drill

People of the peninsula will have an opportunity to see a fleet of 175 army planes in action, according to Captain Roy Francis, superintendent of Mills Field. The planes will arrive at San Francisco's municipal airport at Milbrae on the evening of April 18 for an attack on San Francisco, which has been designated as enemy territory. This, according to Francis, will be the most complete array of army aircraft ever assembled.

Plans are being made to handle the throngs of people who are expected to flock to the field to view the mimic air battle. In speaking of the airport, which is to be bought from the estate of Ogden Mills by the City of San Francisco, Francis said:

"Our airport now is far too small. I have planned to make it a two unit field, 4300 feet wide parallel to the highway and 6200 feet long. Planes would take off at one end and land at the other with a taxi strip in the center. Thus confusion would be eliminated.

"When the Bayshore highway is complete, we will be less than 20 minutes from down town San Francisco, which gives us an advantage over nearly every other large city in the country."

"Three factors are primary in the selection of an airport site," he declared. "First are the meteorological conditions, second, the size, and third, proximity to the business center. After an investigation of a year and a half, we know that Mills Field has an edge in meterorological conditions over any other airport within a radius of 15 miles of San Francisco. We have the charts and the facts and figures. There is no doubt of the conclusion.

WOODSIDE

The Betty-Lou Tea Room, situated at the entrance to Woodside Glens on the Canyada Road, opened its doors on Tuesday. The opening had been delayed for several weeks awaiting equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wobber, returning from their visit to Mexico City, reached San Francisco on Wednesday. They will return to their home here on Saturday.

The Jacklings left the Cyprus in the Mediterranean for the summer. The yacht will arrive in San Francisco this fall and will then be taken by the Jacklings for a cruise about South America.

Dr. and Mrs. Allen and their children will arrive in San Francisco this week and Mr. and Mrs. Jackling will arive in May. They plan to spend the most of the summer at their home here.

The regular meeting of the Woodside Girl Scouts was held on Wednesday afternoon. The girls were surprised with an icecream party given them by Mrs. P. D. Jarvis in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Priscilla who is a member of the Souts.

An organization meeting of the Sequoia District Girl Scouts, of which the Woodside patrols are a part, was held at the Sequoia High School on Wednesday afternoon, Woodside being represented by Mrs. Lester Davis, Mrs. George Shine and Mrs. J. D. Gish.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon. The report of the nominating committee was made and officers elected for the coming year.

Twenty-one years from now there will probably be signing the great register and claiming his right to vote, a young man by the name of Robert John Bonanfant. Just now he is more interested in other things than voting for he arrived only Tuesday night and is being carefully guarded from worldly contacts by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bonanfant.

An election will be held at the fire house next Monday to select a fire commissioner for the Woodside Fire District to take the place of James V. Neuman, whose term has expired and who refused re-nomination. Fred H. Mighall, who has been a resident of Woodside for over twenty years, has been persuaded to run. He is the only candidate.

MENLO NOTES

James Hopkins Succumbs To Lingering Illness

Following a lingering illness of several months James Hopkins, a pioneer resident of Menlo Park, passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. Barney Burke, last Saturday. The funeral was held from the Church of the Nativity Monday morning. The deceased came here from Chicago to work at the Stanford Stock Farm when it was in the heyday of its glory. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Annual Weeding and Cleaning Of Cemetery Under Way

The work of cleaning and cutting the grass in Holy Cross cemetery has begun and will be pushed to completion within a month. George B. Walsh is in charge of the affair, and is seeking funds to carry on the improvement. The improvement of God's half acre is an annual affair, the people always contributing generously to the worthy cause. People having relatives buried in the cemetery shouldn't neglect them. The last home of their loved ones ought to be kept neat and attractive in appearance. Don't shirk in your duty to your dead. Maybe in life they aided you in your success, comforted you when you needed consolation and assistance. Forget them not now they are gone. Remember them when the collector comes around for a contribution to continue this meritorious work. They were generous to you in life, be generous to their memory by keeping their graves attractive and beautiful.

Bear Gulch Water Co. Awards Contract for New Reservoir

The Bear Gulch Water Company has awarded a contract to a San Jose firm for the concrete work in the new reservoir to be constructed at Woodside. The bid was for $16,000. Work will begin shortly on the water conservation project.

Treat the Census Man Kindly; Answer All Question; Give Your Age

The census man will be around next week. Treat him kindly by answering all the questions he asks. The ladies must give their ages promptly and without hesitation. Remember girls that no one will ever find it out. The enumerator will be a stranger who will not remember and who will not tell tales. Your completed blank goes to Washington and with millions of others will repose undisturbed in a vault for over fifty years and after that you won't care.

And So It Is With The Robins, Too

The few robbins that wintered here are about to begin their flight east and north. Robin Red Breast will soon be on his way but he will be in California when winter comes again. He is now gayly chirping "Spring Time In the Rockies," while his pretty little mate is lustily singing, "I'll Be Following You." On their return next winter they'll both be humming the sweet melody, "It's Nice To Get Up In the Morning, but It's Better To Stay In Bed."

Former Resident Passes Away In San Francisco

Mrs. Delia Marshall, a former old time resident of Menlo Park, passed away in San Francisco last Monday. For many years she had been a resident of San Francisco, where she had been conducting an apartment house. Years ago she had charge of the laundry department of the C. N. Felton home. Mrs. Marshall had been Felton's faithful employe for a quarter of a century. At the old senator's death, to show his appreciation for her long services, he bequeathed her the tidy sum of $5000. Other employes were also remembered in the will.

Walsh Acreage Sold For Fine Home Property

The Walsh five acres adjoining the base hospital and close to the estate of Mr. Gillespie was sold, so it is rumored, yesterday to an eastern man who is to erect a fine home on the property.

As City Election Day Approaches Campaign Waxes Hot

The campaign for city officials is at a superheated point. All the candidates are bending every effort to clear the hurdles on April 14.

The three candidates opposed to the present administration are backed by a strong organization that is making every effort to put over the trio, Crane, Dale and Anderson, who, if elected, will control the new council and select a new personnel. The other aspirants are also making a powerful canvass of the voters. J. J. Harcom is running independently and is going it alone. J. B. Glenz is following suit, while Campbell and Ellis, the administration candidates, is a duo that labors together and is doing splendid team work. Sandy Walker is the lone ace. He has broken from the administration. He is standing on a platform of economy. He is practicing what he preaches and is true to the traditions of his race, for he has left the lot of council men that appear in his election cards for economy's sake.

Rev. Bone, in a recent sermon in the Presbyterian church, made it clear that the church, as a body, is not in politics. He urged that all citizens vote according to the dictates of their conscience, selecting the best men for office, regardless of creed, color or politics.

The property owners of Stanford Park have filed a suit in the superior court of Santa Clara county, which enjoined the council from opening and awarding bids that were to be up for action Wednesday evening, last. On April 14, the entire council will have to appear at San Jose, to show cause why a permanent injunction should not follow. The council is thus been tied up until after election, when the new members will act. They, may or not, go on with the improvements as planned.

Mrs. Foster Andrews is spending a few weeks at Santa Barbara. While there she has engaged in numerous golf tournaments. Mrs. Andrews is a golf enthusiast.

The Citizens' League that is backing the candidacy of E. J. Crane, W. E. Dale and Alfred Anderson, for trustees, for election to the city council, held a rousing meeting last Monday night, at which 125 persons were present, all signing pledges to vote for the trio. Speeches were made Fred Metcalf, Engineer Armstrong and others, urging all to support and to vote for the anti- administration ticket. The three candidates made speeches, pledging themselves to carry out the wishes of the people and to use economy in conducting the business of the city. After the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies| The Citizens' League has opened headquarters in the Maloney block. It will conduct a vigorous campaign.

The baseball game last Sunday, between the firemen and the Masonic lodge on the Menlo school diamond, was won by the latter, in a score of 12 to 8. It was a hotly contested game, being witnessed by approximately 500 fans. Both teams played splendid ball.

The many friends of Miss Mary Weston will be pleased to learn that she is rapidly recovering from her recent serious illness and will soon be convalescing.

Monday evening a fire started in the old Pioneer Stables, and for a while it looked as though the building was doomed to destruction, but the good work of the fire department saved the structure.

The blaze started from a fire in one of the rooms and soon the roof was ablaze. The stable is one of the land marks of the town. It was erected in the late 60's, by Bernard Gorman, who conducted it for many years, in conjunction with a saloon. In the early days the Lathams, the Floods, the Hopkins, and the Stanfords, kept their mounts there, and Gorman had a thriving business, accumulating a fortune in a short time. The old structure shows the marks of old age, and with the recent mishap, it is likely to be wrecked by the present owner, Russell.

With the advent of the automobile, livery stables have become antiquated and out of date.

NEW ICE REFRIGERATORS FOR OLD ICE BOXES . . .

OUR old ice box should be replaced at once with one of the remarkably efficient new ice refrigerators—modern in design—beautifully finished in gleaming white or pastel shades—it will be an adornment to your kitchen and a real joy to own.

These new ice refrigerators are scientific in construction and insulation. Columbia University cooperated with the manufacturers in designing them. They provide generous storage space and amply low temperatures (less than 50°) yet use surprisingly little ice.

Your ice man sells them on easy terms—and will make a generous allowance on your old ice box. And the best news of all is the low prices, for, by buying in immense quantities your ice man is able to offer 1930 models at $25 to $65—about half what you paid for your old style ice box.

Ask your ice man about them today. Remember, only ice gives constantly circulating clean, washed air that carries away odors and impurities, and preserves the freshness of food.

DRIED FOOD — UGH!
If you want to keep your foods flavory, sweet and juicy — your salads crisp and green — don't be tempted to buy a substitute for ice refrigeration —or you'll surely regret it. Only ice refrigeration keeps food at its best.

Patron Saint of Penniless Brides

Baton Rouge, La.—Back in the Eighteenth century when Louisiana was a mysterious region of swamps and bayous and forests, a young man made love to a girl who lived along the Mississippi.

She would not marry because she was too poor to bring him a dowry. But to his death at the age of eighty-four he remained faithful to her memory. And his will provided that the interest from $35,000 should be divided annually among the worthy brides of his loved one's home town s dower money.

Recently the police jury, which corresponds to the county supervisors or commissioners in other states, of West Baton Rouge parish alloted close to $200 each to 13 girls who married within the last year.

It was their dowry, a gift from Julien Poydras, a boy from Nantes, Brittany, who came to this country in 1768 after colorful years before the mast.

He peddled odds and ends up and down the Mississippi. He lived a simple life, and he worked hard. Not strange, then, that by the year 1800 he was owner of a hundred slaves and five plantations in the parishes of West Baton Rouge and Pointe Coupee.

Honors, too, came to this adventurous Breton. He was the president of the first legislative council of Louisiana territory. From 1809 to 1812 he was a delegate to congress. He was president of the constitutional convention that opened in New Orleans on November 4, 1811. When Louisiana was admitted to the Union, he served as president of the state senate.

The will of Julien Poydras ordered that all of his slaves be freed within 25 years, and it gave money to schools, hospitals and charitable organizations.

But the bequest best remembered is the dower money. For 100 years it has meant added happiness for the girls in the parish across the Mississippi from the capital city.

To them Julien Poydras was more than a great Louisianian—he was a man who appreciated the pangs of a girl who must come dowerless to her husband.

Census Shows Portuguese Women Are in Majority

Lisbon.—The latest census of the Portuguese population shows that there are 321,355 more women than men in Portugal. The excess of female over male population has been a regular feature of Portuguese vital statistics, with the preponderance increasing not only as the normal population growth increased the difference in absolute numbers, but also increasing in proportion to the relative numbers of the two sexes.

'05 Model Horse Brings $50 as Trade-In on Car

Seattle, Wash.—Old Dobbin enjoyed a horse laugh at the used automobile here. A horse and buggy, both of 1905 vintage, traded in on a new automobile, brought an allowance of $50. "And where," inquired the salesman who closed the deal, "could you find a 1905 automobile that would bring $50?"

The old horse was permitted to roam the vacant lot among delapidated trade-in cars.

All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Relentless Drive on Counterfeiters

Washington.—Secret service, aided by local police, made 138 arrests in the country last month for counterfeiting.

This is a record for one month and evidence of the vigor with which the campaign against counterfeiting is being conducted. Most of the counterfeiting is in $5 and $10 bills, all of which are declared by experts to be only fair work.

The bills are passed in small communities and in the suburbs or congested districts of large cities and reach the banks and big business houses, which promptly bundle them up for deposit or to be sent to Washington for redemption with the result that the counterfeits are not often detected before reaching Washington In the opinion of the experts they should be.

"Congestion of the court calendars and leniency in court sentences is partly responsible for the present situation in counterfeiting," said W H Moran, chief of the secret revenue service.

"We need quicker action in bringing counterfeiters to trial and longer jail sentences. Counterfeiting is the most despicable business in the world for, if successful, it is always an innocent person who suffers and it may be his last cent in the world."

Moran emphatically denied the smaller paper money now in use in this country has anything to do with the increase in counterfeiting. "A counterfeit is a counterfeit," he said "It is no easier to counterfe a small bill than a large one. The faces of the Presidents are the same size on both the old and new bills and that part of the bill is the most difficult for any counterfeiter to imitate so as to pass casual inspection."

The rapidity with which the counterfeiters are being arrested encourages Moran in the belief that no counterfeiters can hope to escape the law long.

When Character and Habits Develop

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Mrs. Cline was delivering herself of a very scathing denunciation of the evil influences which college had exercised over her son. He had come away from home, she averred, clean minded, honest and temperate, and now she found him mixed up in every sort of irregularity. He had been caught cribbing; he had wasted his allowance in gambling, and he was known to be drinking, and involved in even more unsavory things, and college was to blame for it all.

I was myself not so sure of the fact that his derelictions could all be laid at the college doors, and I said so. I even went so far as to ask the boy himself, and he very frankly told me that he had learned nothing new in college. He had simply developed the tendencies and the habits which had had their beginnings in high school. Being away from home, he had been freer to follow his desires, and he was simply putting more energy and interest into his dissipations. The habits which dominate us through life, the principles of character which we follow are developed very early in life.

Rudyard Kipling in a recent address to a group of English school boys in southern England on the opening of a junior school in which they were students, expresses something of the same idea:

"I am sure you have been told many times that your school gives you in miniature almost every problem and situation you may be called upon to meet later. Strange as it may seem, it is true because—perhaps you have been told this—very few men are more than sixteen years old when it comes to a pinch.

"So if you can remember the style of a man's work, or, better still, of play, you can make a close guess later on as to what he will do and how and why, and presently you will realize that men seldom do anything for the first time, except at school. It is not as if men were original creatures They are boy products."

It is quite the truth. Men are only boy products, and they change little after boyhood. An example of this: Martin, shortly after he was out of college, was contemplating marriage and he was discussing with me the great change which would be wrought in him by that ceremony.

"I'm going to be a different man next year," he said.

"How so?" I inquired.

"She'll make me so," he replied confidently.

But she didn't. Martin is just as much a pessimist, a procrastinator, an irresponsible debtor as he was forty years ago. His habits and his character were formed during boyhood and they have remained the same.

Possibly we are born with certain tendencies, possibly many of these are cultivated, but for most of us our habits and our characters are pretty well settled, while as youths we are under the influence of home.

Peasant to Guard Tomb

Mouchamps, France.—The tomb of Georges Clemenceau will be constantly guarded by a Vendee peasant, to prevent its desecration by souvenir hunters.

The Vendeans selected one of their own farmers, M Joseph Jaugeon, for the honor and he took oath before a village justice of the peace, swearing to protect the tiny woodplot in which are the graves of Clemenceau and his father.

Although the woods, lying along the Petit Lay creek, are far off the automobile roads and can be reached only by passing through muddy turnip fields, the grave of the Tiger is visited by hundreds of pilgrims weekly, and, despite the expressed wish of Clemenceau, it is almost constantly covered with flowers.

Knoxville, Tenn.—"It's a girl!"

Manning M Stinnett, blacksmith, heard the words at his shop near Townsend, Tenn., and started for home.

On the way another runner met him and announced: "It's two girls!"

Stinnett quickened his steps Half way home a third messenger greeted him with: "It's two girls and a boy!"

Stinnett then broke into a run and verified the report of triplets, four pounds each. Stinnett knocked off work for the rest of the day.

Polly Was Too Temperamental

New York.—A hundred and sixty parrots from Nicaragua expended all the riches of their limited vocabularies here when they were ordered by the public health officials to spend thirty days at Hoffman's island under observation for signs of parrot fever.

One bird, more talented than the others, almost got ashore by posing as a kitten, but at the last moment betrayed himself by directing an uncomplimentary epithet at one of the ship's officers.

All the birds came in on the Colombia of the Panama Mail line, which arrived from San Francisco after stopping at Central American ports to collect the parrots, seven macaws, two toucans and fifty ring-tailed monkeys.

Mrs. Margaret Daly, a stewardess, also had a parrot and she wanted badly to get in the city. She knew that it would be suspected of carrying psittacosis, but she was morally certain the bird was well. So she taught it to meow like a cat and then put it in a wicker cage covered with cloth.

"What's in the cage?" asked a customs agent.

"A kitten," she said.

"Meow!" said the parrot in confirmation. "Meeeeeow!"

Then through a chink it caught sight of a ship's officer.

"Hello, you—— — — —," it jovially remarked.

"What kind of a kitten is that, any way?" said the inspector.

He tore off the cloth around the cage. The parrot returned his gaze.

"It's Hoffman's island for you, fellow," the agent said.

"Meow" said the parrot.

There was considerable debate between Inspector James Duffy and Deputy Surveyor of Customs John Taylor as to the status of the seven macaws and the two toucans. They were finally admitted when Dr. Lee Crasenll, representing the Department of Agriculture, said they were not psittacosis carriers.

Chinese Bandits Steal Telephone Wires

Nanking, China. — Minnesota folk thought they had found an enterprising thief when it was discovered that several hundred feet of wire had been stolen recently from power company poles near Stillwater, but China can duplicate the tale on an even larger scale. Telephone users in the western district of nationalist China's new capital awoke after a recent heavy snowfall to find their phones out of order. Workmen who investigated found that all the wire in the whole district had been stripped from the poles by bandits, with the sheltering aid of the snow.

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing, 115 So. Ohio St., Anaheim, California

Gabby Street Was Once Fired by Joe Cantillon

When Joe Cantillon was manager of the Washington club, Gabby Street, now manager of the Cardinals, was catching Tom Hughes in a game in Detroit and with the game well in hand, the backstop signaled for a fast ball against a batsman who, according to Cantillon, "couldn't hit a curve with a paddle." A fatal base hit resulted.

"You're through," Cantillon said to Street, "I am going to send you home. Get a ticket from Jerry" (the secretary. Then the players laughed at Gabby and Cantillon went on, "Wait, don't get your ticket tonight, wait until tomorrow. By that time I'll have seven or eight more to send home and we can get a party ticket."

Losses by One Point Give Coach Nickname

It was "Pug" Daugherity in the days when he and Red Grange ripped opposing football lines for Illinois. Now it's "One-point" Daugherity.

The big fellow, Rice institute basketball coach the last two seasons, probably has lost more games by a single point than any mentor in the country.

Last year the Owls dropped five one-point decisions during their Southwest conference campaign. Their most painful setback this season was a 41-to-40 loss to Southern Methodist. On two other occasions they lost in overtime periods.

Robbie Thinks Dodgers Will Be in First Four

Baseball reporters caught Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in an optimistic mood, and "Uncle Robby" went so far as to predict that his charges would finish in the National league's first division.

"Finishing eighth, seventh, sixth or fifth doesn't mean anything to me," he said. "If I can't get up in the first four, I don't care where I finish."

The chief reasons for Robinson's optimism appears to be the return to form of Glenn Wright, shortstop, laid up all of last season due to a lame arm.

Now Plays on Stage

Musical critics' reports received from various parts of Germany indicate that Clyde Burrows of Mystic, Conn., and New York, former baseball player, now lyric tenor, made an unusually favorable impression during his first concert tour of Germany. Incidentally, he had no more ardent well-wisher during this first attempt to sing himself into the hearts of the Germans than Gene Tunney, who is a pal of Burrows. Tunney, by the way, is not much of a musician.

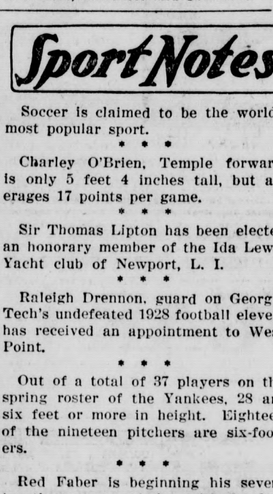
Steadies Hurlers



Straight and narrow is the path laid down for Uncle Wilbert Robinson's pitchers by this "control" device, behind which Al Lopez, the Brooklyn Robins' new catcher, stands. The device is designed to minimize wild pitches on the part of the moundsmen, by forcing them to pitch in the narrow space between the suspended bags which resemble tackling dummies such as are used in football.

PICK GALLANT FOX AS DERBY CHOICE

Conservative Judges Back Horse Cutting Odds.

Winter favorites seldom cross the wire first in the Kentucky derby. For that reason the announcement that Gallant Fox, at 8 to 1, is favored to win the derby may not be taken too seriously.

The report, however, is that conservative judges are backing this horse which accounts for the shrinkage in his price from 10 to 8.

At this stage of the race wild plunges are launched on the merest shadow of foundation.

For example:

Uncle Luther had a pretty good workout. The next day they hammered his price down from 100 to 40 to 1. Other derby horses being played in the future books are: All Upset, Busy and Buckeye Poet, backed from 100 to 60 to 1. Broadway Limited, hammered down from 100 to 40 to 1. High Foot, the best played horse in the derby, is now at 12 to 1, but he has earned the right to attention through his fine races down South.

Bookies have ceased to gamble on the derby since Black Gold sent so many bank rolls to the shambles. Tom Kearney says his Big Store is lucky to break even on the derby each year and that he operates it only because it has become an institution and not because it is a profit producer.

"They're getting too smart for us," Tom hints.

Lefty Grove is this year's highest priced baseball pitcher. He is to receive $25,000 for the year. Dazzy Vance, who received that amount last year, has taken a cut.

Old-time pitching stars didn't fare so well. Walter Johnson got $20,000 at the last. Christy Mathewson drew $12,000, Ed Walsh received $7,500.

The 3,000-hit club, a very exclusive order in baseball, has only five members. They are Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Hans Wagner, Nap Lajoie and Eddie Collins. But another member is knocking at the door, Rogers Hornsby had 2,706 at the end of the 1929 season and needs just 294 more to get in. At the end of the 1930 season he will be within hailing distance and 1931 should put him through.

Ty Cobb has 4,191 to his credit and he really belongs to a higher order, one in which he may be the only member for eternity.

Managers in baseball are always on the lookout for left-handed first basemen. A left-hander at first base is regarded as having the edge over any right-hander in throwing.

It may be that the managers have gone over to the portsiders because of the records of left-handed throwing first basemen in the past, but the 1929 figures will not bear them out in their preference. Lew Fonseca, a first baseman who throws with his right hand and arm, had 107 assists while Lu Blue, a left-handed first baseman, had 88, and Lou Gehrig, another left-handed throwing first sacker, totaled 82 assists for 1929.

Believe it or not, Jack Sharkey's real name is John Zukauskas. Sharkey may disagree, as he frequently has declared that his Lithuanian name is John Coccoskey, but the Lithuanian legation is determined that this error be corrected.

In a letter to British newspaper men an attache at the legation protested the "offensive mutilation of Sharkey's Lithuanian name." "Coccoskey is an absolutely impossible combination of letters calculated to make anybody familiar with the Lithuanian language writhe in anguish," he said.

Bronko Nagurski, all-American grid star of 1929, has been signed to play for the Chicago Bears' professional football team next fall.

Nagurski played in the backfield and on the line for Minnesota last year and was a main cog in the Gopher eleven for three seasons. He was picked by most of the football experts of the country for a berth on the 1929 all-Americans.

It was a strange punishment the boxing rulers meted out to Max Schmeling. He was suspended and has been idle for nearly a year but all the time he is kept on the heavyweight program.

He was given more consideration than Sharkey. Boston Jack was told to fight Stribling, Loughran and Scott —and he did.

Schmeling got the same ranking by doing nothing.

Schmeling may be good and he may be the next world's champion, but certainly he hasn't been made to prove it.

The German is in the heavyweight finals for the world's championship without having had a fight in nearly a year, and while he and his managers defied the men who have put him in this spot.

Moneys of Many Lands

Woman of Palestine Wearing Her Money Wealth as Ornaments.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

THE United States has settled down to the use of the small size paper money so completely that the occasional large bill that is encountered seems awkward. One more chapter has been written in the long story of money.

Man has used money in some form since the dawn of civilization. Fishhooks and slave girls, beads, hawks and hounds, all have served as a medium of exchange. Early Virginians bought wives with tobacco. Once, it is said, Mexican Indians used cacao beans, until aboriginal crooks began making clay counterfeits, baked and varnished to look like the real.

The study of money, as an instrument of trade through the ages, involves art, heraldry, and mythology; it leads to economics and politics—and far into history. When kingdoms rose, often new moneys rose with them; and, when they fell, their moneys passed away. Nothing shakes a government like the depreciation of its money. The very progress of civilization itself may be largely measured by the pace at which the various moneys of the world have been standardized and accepted by international commerce. It was, to a large degree, the quest for gold and silver, and, their use in coined money, which led to the exploration and settlement of America, Australia, and South Africa.

The metal-disk money of the West was born in Lydia, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, about 2,600 years ago.

Cowrie, the lowly shell money of the antipodes, has through the ages been the most widely circulated rival of the metal disk; but its day of dominance has departed. Only isolated communities still cling to it as money. Yet cowrie can boast that more people have used it than have clinked the metal disks in all their varieties. It has served a greater number of human beings as a medium of exchange than any other money devised by man.

China's Metal Coins.

The cash of China, coins with holes in them, still dominate the marts of many men in a considerable corner of the Asiatic world. There exist inscribed cash pieces attributed to 1115-1079 B. C. and similar pieces, uninscribed, believed to be earlier.

The tao, also of China, was one of the first metal coins in the world. The word means "knife" or "sharped-edged instrument," hence the name was applied to the razor-shaped coins of old China.

The earliest Chinese metal coins are believed to have been miniature spades, uninscribed and without perforation and with open shank for inserting a handle. Some authorities place them earlier than 2000 B. C.

Convenience for carrying is accepted as accounting for the introduction and long use of perforated coins by China and its neighbors. From earliest times a string has been the poor man's pocketbook.

There have been many unique moneys in different countries. Nails were once so precious that they were used as money in Scotland and in New England in pre-revolution days. And while the mark was skidding to zero after the World war, postmasters in remote parts of Germany used shoe nails for small-change purposes—they had a fixed utility value.

Bars of crystal salt are money in many parts of Ethiopia. This medium of exchange, however, suffers deterioration in a strange way. It has become a nice courtesy, when meeting a friend, to proffer a coin to be licked! So does the money lose weight through friendly hospitality, and it is to be hoped that the salt acts as a germicide!

The island of Yap, of the Caroline group, neighbors in the remote way of the South seas with the Philippines and New Guinea, undoubtedly boasts the strangest of money. It is of stone and the coins are sometimes 12 feet in diameter and weight many hundreds of pounds!

When Cattle Were Money.

It is nearly 3,000 years back to the time of Homer, when there was no such thing in the Western world as money. People bartered in the markets, exchanging suckling goats for woven rugs. There were neither ducats nor dollars in which to price them, nor was there an established measure of value. The habit of haggling, still prevalent, may have come down from those ancient days of barter.

The idea of money was not yet born to that borderland of Europe and Asia that was then the West. The nearest approach to an article that would function as such was the milk-faced ox.

This animal possessed one prime requisite of money. It was generally recognized as a thing of value desired of all men. Money must primarily be something that every man wants, for which he will exchange any of his ordinary commodities, and the ox came nearer meeting this test 1,000 B. C., in the triangle that was Greece, Egypt, and Palestine, than did any other element of wealth among the masses.

The peoples from which Western civilization sprang were pastoral folk, their wealth being represented in sheep and cattle. Gradually they came to measure other values by the unit of the herd, the ox. A little later armor was priced in oxen. A knight could buy a serviceable suit of armor for ten oxen, but one of choice workmanship would cost fifty.

The modern word "pecuniary," from pecus, cattle, has its place in our language because cattle were once money.

Sheep represented a lower monetary denomination. They were small change! Ten sheep equaled one ox.

After copper was mined in Cyprus and pots made of it, these utensils came to be used for money. Later conveniently shaped strips of copper replaced pots as a medium of exchange and later still these were of a definite weight. When shrewd traders debased the copper by mixing cheaper metals with it, or gave the pieces a short weight, it became necessary for the local government to step in, test the metal, and certify to its value by a stamp. Thus the modern idea of metal money of value was born.

When copper became plentiful and therefore cheap, it was too bulky to serve as the principal money. Silver displaced it and ruled the money world for 2,000 years. In time the same thing happened with silver that had happened with copper. It became too bulky to figure in large transactions. Gold, which had always been in the background as money, was brought forward to become the standard money metal.

Token Coinage and Paper Money.

Metal money did not remain wholly a matter of intrinsic value. It was discovered almost by accident that a strong government could take a piece of metal of relatively low value, stamp a higher value on it, and have it accepted in trade as though it were truly worth the stamped amount. Thus token coinage, or undervalue money, came into existence, marking another important step in money's evolution. It was partly real value and partly value based on trust in the issuing agency. In the United States all of our small silver, nickel and copper coins are tokens. None of them will melt down into metal of as great value as the denomination stamped on it.

Paper money may be looked upon as token money carried to its final extreme. A piece of it has no value at all in itself; the value depends wholly on a promise printed on it. But although the idea of paper money might be expected to have developed easily from token money, no one in the West seems to have considered the matter feasible until more than a thousand years after token coins appeared.

Paradoxically, the first "paper" money was a brick; for the germ of the idea seems to have been born in Babylonia more than two thousand years before the Christian era. Bonds for the repayment of loans were written on clay tablets and baked. These passed from hand to hand as representations of the amounts involved. Similarly, deposits were made with individuals, and clay-brick drafts were written against them. Later brick bills of exchange transferred wealth from place to place.

In Europe paper to represent money first came into use, apparently, during the Middle ages when the Jewish financiers of those days reinvented the bills of exchange of Babylonia and recorded them in ink on parchment and paper. Individuals also accepted deposits of coin and bullion for safe keeping and issued receipts payable on demand. Thus, the first modern gold and silver certificates circulated from hand to hand in place of the deposits.

The Bank of St. George at Genoa and the Bank of Venice were the first corporations to use paper money.

Brains of Ice Age Men

Symbolic of the ancient struggle between the giant beasts that roamed the earth thousands of years ago and prehistoric man, the teeth of a woolly mammoth and two sets of petrified human brains were recently reported found side by side at Odinzowo, Russia, says Popular Science Monthly.

From a study of the mammoth's teeth the discoverers estimated that the brains date from the Ice age, at least 12,000 years ago. If their assumption is correct, they are probably the oldest brains ever found. The fossilized brains were found to be only slightly smaller and less developed than those of recent inhabitants of the same section.

Bride Tells Her Secret

Beauty, Charm, Clear Skin—How Can They be Won?

"FOR a young bride of twenty-one to lose her vitality and pep is disastrous, almost a sacrilege," says Mrs. George E. Pillow, of Franklin, Va. "That, however," she continues, "is just what I did."

"I had only been married a few months to an athletic husband, who went everywhere and did everything. I tried to keep up with his pace, and simply collapsed under the strain. I never was really ill; just sallow-skinned, depressed, and lifeless. Swimming, dancing, golf, I just couldn't face them. When I began to lose my clear complexion, I was desperate.

"Then one day a girl friend came to pay me a visit. In the bottom of her little bag of clothes lay a crystal-clear bottle—Nujol! A short woman-to-woman talk—a telephone call to a neighboring drug store—and my future happiness was settled.

"That was a year ago. Now I too am never without Nujol, which has brightened and cleansed my body like a cake of pure soap. I eat, sleep, swim, and hike with the enthusiasm of a child. My complexion is all it used to be—and best of all—I am my husband's little pal again."

The wonderful thing about crystal-clear Nujol is that it is not a medicine; it contains no drugs—it cannot hurt even a baby. It is simply the normal internal lubrication which your body needs. Let Nujol clear the poisons out of your body (we all have them), and flood the sunshine of happiness into your life.

It sounds like a fairy tale, but millions of people have proved it. So can you. Get Nujol at any drug store—sold only in sealed packages, with the Nujol trademark. It costs but a few cents and it will make you feel like a million dollars!

Plans for joint action of the Boys' Work Secretaries of Northern California were made for the period running up until the latter part of July.

Leaders of the clubs under the program of the Young Men's Christian Association from San Mateo County and Palo Alto will meet for their regular monthly meeting at the Sequoia Hotel on Saturday evening. At this time in addition to reports on progress and experience, plans will be made for the carrying on in this area of the various events which are scheduled for this month and the first of next.

Tuesday evening, April 8, will be Ladies Night at the Congregational church. The men of the church are to present a play at 7:30. A program of unusual interest has been arranged and a large attendance is anticipated.

The Las Lomitas P.-T. A. will meet at the school house on Friday, April 4, at 3 p. m. A feature of the afternoon will be selections played by the Primary band, and the School orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Huebner.

Prof. Otis M. Carrington, head of the music department of the Sequoia Union High School, returned Tuesday night from Chicago, where he had been attending a convention of music supervisors. During the week Mr. Carrington was in Chicago, the "Windy City" experienced its worst March blizzard in history. Snow, which began falling at midnight, Monday, March 24, by Wednesday had attained an official depth of 16 inches. The previous snowfall record was 14.9 inches, set on January 7, 1918. The storm, which paralyzed street car, rail and automobile traffic for 24 hours, cost the city millions of dollars, Mr. Carrington reports. Needless to say the Redwood City instructor was glad to get back to California.

Henry Witte and John Gill left yesterday for Santa Barbara, where they will attend a planning commission convention for the rest of the week. Both men are members of the local planning commission.

Society

At a very pretty luncheon on Wednesday Mrs. L. E. Bostwick entertained a group of friends at her home on Lowell street. Red and white carnations and baskets of spring flowers were used profusely to decorate the rooms. Bridge was the diverson of the afternoon and high scores were made by Miss Gean Mackay, Mrs. George Gunther and the consolation was awarded to Mrs. Sidney North.

TELEPHONE INSTALLERS SAVE VICTIMS OF GAS

Risking their lives in a gas filled manhole two telephone installers in New York City recently rescued two other telephone men who had been overcome by the deadly carbon monoxide while searching for a cable leak. One of the installers, C. "Pat" Canavan, was on his way home from work when he was hailed by a taxicab driver who told him that two men were lying unconscious at the bottom of the manhole. Canavan rushed to the scene, where a shaft of daylight showed him two feet and a hand, motionless at the bottom. Climbing down the ladder, oblivious of the odorless but poisonous gas, and with his eyes unaccustomed to the darkness, he could barely make out the two bodies which he found against the wall of the cable's tunnel. It was impossible for him to lift either man and carry him up the ladder, but at this time another installer, Frank Mammel, appeared on the scene, and through their combined efforts the two men were rescued and later revived.

Joan Crawford and Mack Brown in 'MontanaMoon'

Many Good Pictures Coming to Sequoia

Thos. J. Kane, manager of the Sequoia Theatre, announces some of the great pictures coming to the Sequoia Theatre in the near future. On Sunday and Monday, April 6th and 7th, Joan Crawford in "Montana Moon," a brilliant comedy-drama of the great out-of-doors. Miss Crawford is supported in this picture by an excellent cast, including John Mack Brown, Dorothy Sebastian, Ricardo Cortez, Benny Rubin, Cliff Edwards, (better known as "Ukelele Ike"), Karl Dand and Lloyd Ingram. Joan Crawford is starred in the role of a spoiled millionaire's daughter, who falls in love with the cowboy working on her father's ranch. John Mack Brown plays the western lover, and shows up well—as a matter of fact, he is ready for stardom himself. The story is entirely original and is crammed full of action far head of any western yet to come to the talking screen. The cast was selected and built for laughs, and one is promised an evening of delightful entertainment.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the same week the screen's latest musical comedy sensation "Hit the Deck," will be a feature attraction at the local palace of the talking pictures. Jack Oakie, famous comedian, leads the cast of 1000 glittering stars. This should prove to be a favorite of the theatre-going public of the peninsula. The play itself was possibly one of the greatest favorites ever staged in San Francisco. Nine great song hits are introduced in "Hit the Deck" including the great "Hallelujah" chorus. Really a great treat is in store for the public of Redwood City and vicinity.

Thirty people in thirty widely separated cities made $2,331,565 on thirty real estate transactions in periods that in no case ran more than 15 years, reports the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the fourth of a series of stories on realty profits. These people made an average profit of $77,718 each on these thirty sales.

In giving a new set of examples of the money made in the purchase and re-sale of the land, the Association observes that all of these deals occurred while the original purchasers were still alive and could enjoy their profits.

The examples cover many types of property, vacant, improved, and

PRESIDENT HOOVER HAS TELEPHONE ON HIS DESK

One of President Hoover's innovations has been to have a telephone placed on his desk. Hitherto, when the President was desirous of using the telephone, he had to go to a booth adjoining his private office, but one of President Hoover's first acts was to have the telephone placed right in front of him so he could use it easily and without loss of time. From all accounts, this innovation has worked out most satisfactorily and it is said that the President uses his telephone much as any other business man does and that many personal interviews between the President and his executives now take place over the telephone.

Novelty Will Be Feature of Dance

Aboard a ship in tropic waters will be the motif for the first dance to be sponsored by the Sequoia Press Club of Sequoia high scnool Saturday night, April 5, in the boys' gym at the local high school.

Three features will gret Sequoians and alumni to make this "hop" the biggest hit of the school year. The boys' gym, which is superior to the girls' gymnasium floor because it is smoother, a five-piece orchestra that has worked its way to Australia and other ports on the Matson line and the decorations which are planned to represent a salon on a tropical cruize, are the main pointers in back of the dance.

In order that a journalistic atmosphere may be present, Eskimo pies will be sold. To continue on the ship idea, life savers are to be sold as well as punch.

An unusual number of patrons and patronesses have been invited to this affair. The patrons and patronesses, representative of the high school trustees, local newspapermen, townspeople, and faculty members, will be: Mesdames and Messrs. Donald Bogie, George Gunther, James Hedge, Carroll D. Hall, Walter T. Kellogg, William Vielhauer, D. W. Williams and Fulton Woolridge Mesdames Robert Littler; Miss Anna Burns; and Messrs. A. C. Argo, Byron Bentley, Max Gelber and Don Kauffman.

Programs were sent to approximately 200 Sequoia alumni in hopes that they will come to the dance and renew their acquaintances.

The regular prices of 50 cents and 25 cents wil be charged.

Low Bid Received For Menlo Street Work

At a special meeting Wednesday night, the city board of trustees of Menlo Park, having secured a permit from Judge F. B. Brown of San Jose, opened bids for the proposed street improvements in Stanford Park. The lowest bid of six submitted was that of the Peninsula Paving Co. of this city, its figure being $64,518. The highest bid was that of Hanrahan Co. of San Francisco in the sum of $76,085. The estimate of County Engineer Geo. A. Kneese for the work was $80,000.

The bid of the Peninsula Paving Co. is one of the lowest that has ever been submitted for this class of street work, according to County Engineer Kneese, who prepared the proceedings for the improvements.

The Stanford Park Property Owners' Association is opposing the class of work called for in the specifications and last week applied for a court injunction in Santa Clara county against the improvements going ahead. Final hearing on the injunction has ben set for April 14.

FORMER TEACHER GIVES RECITAL

A musical recital was given at the Sequoia Union High School yesterday for the senior students by Miss Mary A. Ball, former teacher at the school. Miss Ball's recital was on English lyrics. She was accompanied by Miss Esther Anderson on the piano.

Suit for divorce from Frank Folsom, Redwood City plumber, was filed in the Superior Court this week by Mrs. Frances Folsom. Mrs. Folsom charges that her husband neglected to provide for their two minor daughters, used liquor and swore in front of his family. The couple were married in Chicago in 1917. They have two children, Helen, 10, and Jean, 5, whose custody the mother seeks. She is represented by James T. O'Keefe.

The American Legion will hold a dance tomorrow evening in the War Memorial Hall on Standish street. Music will be furnished by O'Connor's orchestra. Charles Ward is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements.
